Parking with Disabled Person Plates or Placards

If you have a Disabled Person (DP) placard or license plate, you can park in the following spaces without a UC San Diego parking permit:

- Handicap-accessible spaces designated by the wheelchair symbol, found in every UC San Diego parking lot.
- Metered spaces (no fee required)
- Spaces marked S, B or A (see below for exceptions)

Disabled placards or plates alone are not valid in the following:

- Spaces posted “A Permit required 7 days a week/ 24 hours a day”
- Spaces marked “Reserved”
- Areas painted with crosshatching or marked “No Parking”
- Areas that are not designated parking spaces
- Red curb, fire lane or yellow commercial zones (unless license plate allows)
- Timed loading zones, beyond the specified time

Before arriving at UC San Diego, view the campus parking map to locate accessible spaces and allow for extra time for this process.

Be sure to read the signs wherever you park to make sure that you are in compliance. The posted regulations supersede the general overview that CARTA provides.
